CRITERIA FOR NOMINATIONS FOR THE
"OUTSTANDING CONTRIBUTION TO AGRICULTURE" AWARDS

Person(s) nominated for the award should be over thirty-five years of age.

Candidates can be any individual or organization who has gone above and beyond to contribute to the field of Agriculture. This can include farmers, processors, marketers, or involved in the related areas of educational, governmental, or allied industry segments of agriculture.

The main qualification is the extent to which the person(s) (man or woman) has furthered agriculture's interest or development in production or marketing.

Personal character attributes and involvement in agricultural-related organizations and business, civic, governmental, educational, and religious activities will also be considered.

There are no specific categories for nominations.

The awards are sponsored by the Portage County Business Council and recipients are selected by the Selection Committee appointed by the Portage County Business Council. Awards are presented at the upcoming American Agriculture Banquet.
